Introduction to Bull Shark

Bull shark was created by a team that has been rugged far too many times and wants to change the Binance Smart Chain paradigm for the better. This being the case, the developers of this project are sympathetic to the plight of both novice and experienced DeFi investors alike: finding a stable and reliable reward token that will incentivize long term holding by providing stacking BNB rewards.

All too often, coins reward their holders in their native token. This model only works while operating under the assumption that the native token will retain its value long term. By guaranteeing hourly BNB rewards we have ensured that the value of your reflections is stable and not subject to change based on market conditions.

The Value of Bull Shark and Its Impact on DeFi

Bull Shark's one-of-a-kind contract is one of the first steps in revolutionizing the standards for BNB based reward tokens. By guaranteeing hourly payouts, our project capitalizes on the speed and precision of the blockchain to our holder's advantage.

Many crypto investors are tired of tokens that claim to pay out "hourly" rewards while paying out little to nothing when volume decreases. This has led to a growing distrust of reward tokens

Soon, guaranteed hourly payouts will become the baseline for Binance based reward tokens.

Technical Details and Tokenomics

Transaction taxes are as follows:

2% immediately burned

3% added to liquidity pool

10% redistributed as rewards to holders

The Bull Shark contract is unique in that it utilizes the first ever automatic payout system that has a dedicated gas fee wallet. The wallet will automatically be filled monthly with earnings from reflections to match current holders and projected monthly trading volume. This allows for hourly payout without the usual delay required to accumulate gas fees.
